WHERE ART COUNTS

LYNN-COOPER WALL PAPER & PAINT COMPANY ALSO SELLS PIANOS

Art counts for much in the new and handsomely fitted-up store, which the Lynn-Cooper Paper & Paint company will open Monday morning, at 1106 W. Broadway. It would be difficult to find a more artistically fitted-up store of this kind on the Pacific coast. Art is the firm's strong point. The window is artistically dressed so as to show off the attractive designs of the wall papers and art pictures in which the firm deals and at the same time space is given to a display of a beautiful Ludwig Angelus piano player.

The firm consists of Mr. H. C. Charles W. Cooper. Mr. Lynn has Lynn, Mr. James W. Cooper and Mr. long been favorably known in Glendale, where he has been a contractor in wall paper and paints for several years.

Mr. James W. Cooper has for several years been connected with the Kanst Art store in Los Angeles. Whatever there is to be known about pictures and art in general Mr. James Cooper knows.

Mr. Charles W. Cooper is well known to music-loving people who have been in the habit of frequenting Clune's Broadway theater, Los Angeles, as the musical genius who played the organ there. He has a wide acquaintance with music, and piano-selling in Chicago, where he was connected with Mason & Hamlin people for a long time.

Mr. Charles Cooper has been connected with wall-paper firms all his life, as well as with music firms. He was for some time connected with the Henry Leaderer Wall Paper company of Chicago and did business for them in various cities. There are a great many other wall paper factories with which the Lynn-Cooper company is connected. In this way the firm is able to secure the very latest designs in wall paper and decorations of all kinds.

Messrs. Lynn-Cooper believe in having the freshest lines and all the latest creations in bungalow and house decoration.

Here may be seen the celebrated ingrain wall hangings, and tapestry in two tones and all the popular shades and colors. Dainty bedroom patterns are here to suit the most refined taste. Fine French wall papers and those wonderful landscape papers for which the French are famous are here; also modern leather, satin, silk and many other fabrics for wall decoration.

This is a genuine art store. Pictures of every kind are to be found here. The cheap print can be obtained and so can the expensive oil painting and the delicate water color. Engravings, old and new, etchings, woodcuts are here to suit every taste.

Here, too, is everything in the way of a frame that can be imagined. Fancy shopmade frames beautifully finished may be obtained or a customer can have any kind of frame made to order, for the back of the store is fitted up with the very latest equipment in the way of picture framing machinery.

The firm also carries a big line of paints from the Bass-Hueter Paint company of Los Angeles. Enamels of all kinds, and tints of all colors, automobile and carriage paints are kept in stock as well as the very highest grades of house paints and mixed house paints of all kinds. Varnishes, floor varnishes and floor stains of every kind are in this fully stocked store. Here, too, are painters' supplies of every kind.

Mr. Charles Cooper says that the firm is proud of its new store as indeed it has a right to be, for everything is artistically arranged and the stock chosen with an artistic eye and out of wide experience. The pianos are of the famous Hardman, Ludwig, Kingsbury and Mason & Hamlin makes. The firm also keeps in stock the Ludwig Angelus piano player and the Euphona player of the Cable Piano company.

In every way this is a store calculated to satisfy the esthetic tastes of the most exacting and it is going to be a credit to the city.

BURGLAR IN APARTMENT

Complaint was made to the police this morning that the apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barnhart, on S. Maryland street, was entered by a burglar, who managed to secure and get away with a quantity of jewelry, a Waltham watch, two finger rings and a Panama hat. No trace of the thief has been found.

HEAVY BUG PEST

BURR R. JONES, HORTICULTURAL COMMISSIONER, TELLS HOW TO HANDLE IT

The mealy bug, though having been present in citrus orchards and on other growths for a long time, has only within the last three or four years assumed an importance in the estimation of the citrus growers which would entitle it to very serious consideration as a pest which must at least be controlled and should be eradicated entirely if that can be accomplished by reasonable means.

In former years, the infestations of this bug seemed to be periodical. Two or three years of their quite plentiful appearance would be followed by an equally or perhaps longer period when they would be comparatively scarce and, in some instances, would disappear entirely More lately, however, they seem to be steadily on the increase both as to numbers where energetic means have not been taken to control them, and the extent of the territory in which they are prevalent.

As to the damage caused by them, the honey-dew similar to that of the black scale always accompanies them and, in cases of bad infestation, the trees cannot be otherwise than injured; not only from the exhaustion caused by the feeding of the insects, but by the coating of honey-dew and the accompanying smut on the leaves and fruit, and the binding of them together by the woolly masses which are always present, especially when the infestation is of the citri variety.

In the case of the nave lorange, it is very difficult to free the navel cavity from the insects at packing time, and if they remain on the fruit in the boxes they continue to increase and a very unpleasant and objectionable appearance may result. On lemons, this latter trouble is not so marked, as the fruit has no navel cavity and the washer frees it pretty thoroughly from the bugs, though some may remain on any fruit beneath the stem part, notwithstanding the most thorough washing.

There is no doubt that the most thorough attempts should be undertaken in every community of citrus growers to control the mealy bugs, and special means will be required to achieve adequate results. Fumigation, as practiced for scale, while killing some of the medium sized insects, very often fails to get the old ones, and is practically harmless on the eggs protected as they are by their cottony covering; however, if the fumigation is repeated before the young bugs hatched from the eggs are large enough to begin depositing eggs again (say in six weeks) and repeated at these intervals until all of the eggs are hatched, excellent results can be obtained as the very old, resistant bugs missed the first time will die naturally within the period.

This has been demonstrated several times to my knowledge; but in the case of large infestations, the growers are loath to incur the expense of several fumigations, hoping to accomplish the desired result more cheaply. Thorough, frequent and persistent fumigation is much the most effective treatment for these insects and the most satisfactory in the end.

As to sprays, several kinds are recommended and are more or less effective. Probably the best is the carbolic acid emulsion composed of:

Whale oil soap.....40 lbs.
Crude carbolic acid.....5 gals.
Water to make.....40 gals.

Boil 20 minutes. Each gallon to be diluted with 20 gallons of water for use. A new spray which has been perfected and is recommended by R. S. Woglum, who gave us the Woglum fumigation schedule, but which has not yet been so fully tried out as the other, consists of a distillate emulsion to which is added a compound of cresolic acid. We hope within a short time to be able to give the formula more completely for general use.

All sprays, however, are open to the objection that in the thick foliage of the citrus trees, all parts of the branches and foliage are never reached by the liquid, and more or less of the insects according to the thoroughness of the work, escape on these untouched surfaces.

An eradication can probably in most cases be brought about by repeating the spray a number of times, varying with the thoroughness of the application. I believe anybody having only a portion of his grove affected, would be well repaid for the loss of the use of those trees for one or two seasons, if he would cut them back sufficiently to remove all of the foliage; in which case, every part of the tree could be thoroughly drenched and thus make a complete eradication and prevent the rest of

CHAMBER COMMERCE

HEAR GOOD REPORT FROM SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL MATTERS

To the Chamber of Commerce:

The regular monthly meeting of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was held in the Chamber of Commerce building at 1011 West Broadway, Friday evening, April 14, J. W. Usilton, president of the chamber, presiding and R. M. Jackson, the secretary, serving in his usual capacity. After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, the same being approved, the president requested the secretary to read the following communication:

Gentlemen:—It was our good fortune to represent you at the annual banquet of the Pasadena Board of Trade last Tuesday evening at the Hotel Green in Pasadena and listen to the eloquent oratory of Hon. Henry A. Melvin and Mr. James A. Foley and partake of the banquet. While all that I have mentioned was well worth commendation, it is not that which impressed me most. It was the wonderful unanimity of purpose displayed by the 700 members present and their intense earnestness in forwarding the work of that organization for the betterment of the city of Pasadena. It is thoroughly understood by everyone that Glendale cannot compare with Pasadena either in numbers or influence, but we can follow the example that she has set for us to the success that has made the name Pasadena known all over the United States.

It is acknowledged that conditions are not the same in the two cities, for it is thoroughly realized that a large proportion of the population of Glendale are engaged in the city of Los Angeles in various pursuits, and that this fact in many instances lessens the direct interest in this city that is felt in places differently situated. I now appeal to you, citizens, to join the Chamber of Commerce and as often as possible attend their meetings, so as to aid in the various undertakings that present themselves from time to time that will be of benefit to Glendale. Perhaps many of you are dissatisfied with the conduct of the chamber; if so, even that is easily remedied by attendance and assisting in bringing the chamber as near your ideal as possible. In closing I hope that the committee work improves. It is expected when a member accepts a duty that he shall perform it expeditiously.

When the chairman called for a report from the special and standing committees it seemed that these committees were not prepared to give reports except in one instance. This neglect on the part of the heads of the committees prompted a motion to prevail that the secretary be instructed to notify the chairman of each committee at least three days before the time of each monthly meeting of the Chamber, reminding the committeemen that they are to be ready to report at the coming meeting. It was a disappointment to the members present that the special railroad committee which had been appointed at a previous meeting to negotiate with Pacific Electric officials for the purpose of lowering the transportation rates between Glendale and Los Angeles was not present to report. On motion it was decided to add additional members to this committee, designating W. M. Kimball of Maple Ave., now a member of the committee, to serve as chairman of the new committee.

Messrs. H. A. Wilson and S. A. Davis, members of the special committee previously appointed to investigate as to the high school tax rate in the Glendale community, were present and submitted very complete reports, setting forth the receipts and expenditures in the two schools. On motion a request was made that these reports be published in the Glendale Evening News. Following the reports a half hour was taken up in discussing various items mentioned in the report. These discussions were not conducted in a spirit of criticism, but were for the purpose of gaining valuable information as to the work the schools are doing. It was the unanimous opinion of those present that the Glendale schools stand second to none in Southern California and if there is any citizen in the Glendale community who fears that the Chamber of Commerce as a body is in any way in opposition to the best interests of the public school system, he should get his mind freed from any such false beliefs at once, for it is a known fact that the Chamber of Commerce as an organization stands for all that is for the upbuilding of the schools, churches and municipal affairs, and if at any time there has been by certain citizens an apparent opposition to the schools such opposition should not be credited to the Chamber of Commerce as an organization.

A motion prevailed for the appointment of a committee whose duty it will be to inquire into the feasibility of establishing a municipal gas plant in Glendale. The names of the members of this committee will be made known later.

There was a live interest taken in the evening's meeting by those present and the remark was passed around among the members that the meeting had been a very profitable one.

GARDEN SOCIETY TRIP

FORTY MEMBERS TAKE AUTO JOURNEY TO VIEW PASADENA FLOWER SHOW

Through the courtesy of some of the members of the Glendale Garden society who have automobiles, forty members of the society were taken to Pasadena, Friday afternoon, to view the Flower Show in that city. The party started at 3:30 p. m. under the direction of Mrs. Nanno Woods, president, Mr. Caruthers, manager of the Glendale Flower Show, Mr. Freeman Kelley, vice-president, and Mrs. Ella Richardson and Mrs. Ackley, directors.

Pasadena was reached at 4 p. m. and the Glendale representatives proceeded to the Flower Show, where they were met by Mr. William Shields, president of the Pasadena society, and by Mr. George Kennedy, secretary. These officials very kindly devoted themselves to the party and took them through the exhibits, explaining everything.

Mrs. Dell, chairman of the School exhibits in connection with the Glendale show, and Miss White, agricultural teacher in the Glendale schools, were specially interested in the school exhibits at Pasadena. They think, however, that Glendale will be quite as up-to-date in this respect as Pasadena. The Wild Flower section in the Glendale show bids fair to excell that section in Pasadena.

There was, as might be expected, a very fine display of roses at Pasadena, a city that is famous for its magnificent rose gardens. The Glendale delegation was specially pleased with the Iris section, in which were many very fine and rare specimens.

What interested them as much as anything else was the wonderful display of Garden Craft installed by the Matthews Garden Craft company. In this section were a great many very tasteful and beautiful pergolas, and other garden appurtenances and adornments. This exhibit will be brought to Glendale and will form one of the attractions of the coming Free Flower Show, April 20, 21, 22.

Mr. Arthur Simpson of Pasadena and Los Angeles also attracted attention by his very artistic paintings of landscape gardening work done by himself. Mr. Simpson is a landscape gardener of the first order and these paintings show how wonderful is the transformation he can effect on a landscape by judicious touches here and there. This exhibit also will be brought to the Glendale show where it will be a very welcome addition to the other exhibits.

Among the rose exhibits that of Mr. Clemence of Pasadena attracted a great deal of attention. Mr. Clemence has been growing roses all his life and is an expert in securing beautiful blooms.

After having satisfied themselves with the beauty of the show the Glendale party returned home greatly encouraged. They believe that Glendale will have an exhibition that will stand on the same platform as that of Pasadena and will be a credit to the city. The main party got back about 7 p. m., though some stayed a little later to get further ideas for the coming show.

DOROTHY BONNELL IMPROVES

Dorothy Bonnell, who was so seriously injured in an auto accident, is slightly better. She is conscious at intervals and hopes are entertained of her ultimate recovery. Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan is getting along nicely.

VALUE OF ADVERTISED MERCHANDISE

It has gradually come to be understood that advertised merchandise is almost invariably better than unadvertised merchandise. This has been proved after careful investigation and there are solid reasons for this being the case. The manufacturer who advertises his merchandise, spending large sums of money on this exploitation of his particular brand, must of necessity live up to the statements made in his advertising in order to keep his products in steady demand.

While the public may be induced to make a purchase of a certain brand of goods by seeing it continuously advertised, unless the purchase fulfills the promises made in the advertising the public will not repeat the purchase. For this reason no manufacturer can afford to let his advertised products fall below his advertised claims, otherwise not only would purchasers never repeat their purchases but they would also not fail to publish among their acquaintances the fact that a certain brand of merchandise had not made good.

Some merchants refuse to handle heavily-advertised and trademarked merchandise because they can get unmarked merchandise much cheaper. Naturally if the manufacturer has to spend thousands of dollars advertising and is compelled to keep up the quality of the article he produces to protect the reputation of his trademark he cannot sell such goods as cheaply as those not thus protected. The spoils and seconds of the factory can be worked off on merchants who desire cheapness and not quality; but the advertised goods must show the quality advertised or the merchant must go out of business. On unadvertised merchandise also, with which the trade is not acquainted, a merchant can set his own price and allow himself a wide margin of profit.

As a rule leading merchants in any town carry well-known advertised brands in every line. They are bidding for continuous patronage, relying on repeat sales. On the other hand, visit the second-class store, especially those that depend on transient trade. Here you will find unknown, unadvertised merchandise on which large profits can be realized.

Where a merchant has made a name for himself his goods are certain to be in demand. This is specially the case with jewelry and certain articles of personal wear. About Christmas time it has been found that many people are anxious to get the boxes of firms, on which the firm's name may be stamped, in which they then inclose their inferior presents from some inferior store. That is one of the strong testimonies as to the value of advertised merchandise.

These are some of the latest discoveries in the value of advertising. The wise will lay them to heart. In fact, no matter what form advertising may take no firm can do without some form. Of all the forms that suit almost any kind of business, newspaper advertising in a respectable and respected newspaper which has a character for honest dealing, is one of the best. The fact that advertising is found in certain newspapers is invariably a guarantee that the goods must be as represented and the advertiser conscious of what is expected of him is forced to keep up the quality to the high mark even if he might be tempted to deceive in this respect. Advertising in these modern days is a great protection to the public and a great stimulator of business morality.

ASSAULT JURY DISAGREED

N. Banbrock and S. Lyon of Los Angeles, arrested for assault on the complaint of C. F. Harrington of the same city, appeared for trial Friday in Judge Whomes' court. They had been admitted to bail. The prosecuting witness, C. F. Harrington, also charged on a cross complaint with assault on Banbrock and Lyon was present. Lyon and Banbrock having demanded a jury trial, the following jury was impaneled: David Francy, M. L. Weaver, Elias Ayres, Cameron Thom, V. E. Philp, John Lawson, R. A. Peterson and King Booth.

Attorney James E. Wadham appeared for the defense. It appeared that on Sunday, April 9, Lyon and Banbrock on a motorcycle and Harrington in an automobile had come into a dispute on San Fernando road. Conceiving themselves injured by the manner in which they had been compelled to take refuge in the ditch to avoid collision Lyon and Banbrock argued the matter with Harrington and finally, as he alleged, assaulted him. F. Katsupi, M. Homoshama and Norman Van Bengle were examined as witnesses. A Breton acted as interpreter.

After considerable evidence had been taken the case was given to the jury, who deliberated for some time and finally announced that they found it impossible to come to any agreement on the case, four standing for conviction and four for acquittal.

The attorney for the defense waived a new trial and the case was submitted to the court on the evidence with the understanding that the court's decision would be accepted. Judge Whomes will render his verdict Monday.

HONOR MAY DAY BRIDE

A very novel and pretty miscellaneous shower was given Friday evening by Mrs. Arthur Haines and Mrs. Clair V. Arrington at the home of Mrs. Haines, 1450 W. Fifth St., in honor of Miss Gertrude Wilson, who is to be the May Day bride of Dr. C. R. Lusby. The rooms were beautifully decorated in pink and white, a profusion of pink roses and carnations adding their grace and fragrance while numerous cupids peeping out here and there were very suggestive of the occasion. A game of hearts was very appropriate and Miss Edna Learned, being the winner in the contest, was given the honor of presenting the bride-to-be with a beautiful hand-painted book containing the favorite recipes of her friends accompanied by their likenesses.

At the appointed hour Miss Wilson was called to the dining room, where a huge pink cake centered the table. She was asked to cut the cake and serve the guests but found that the enormous confection was hollow but filled with many beautiful and precious gifts. While she was unwrapping the dainty bundles, revealing articles of linen, china, kitchenware, etc., a shower of rice descended upon the head of the bride-elect.

Ice cream was served in a very unique and attractive way, in the form of a log center piece on which was Cupid perched on a pink heart, and surrounded with little chickens. The delicious cakes which accompanied the ice were in the prevailing color.

The guests who delighted to honor this charming girl were: Misses Edna Learned, Ruth Pierce, Helena Schwartz, Margaret McOmber, Dorothy Lee, Genevieve Ganaway, Mildred Jackson, Esther Andrae, Helen Wright, Mrs. L. C. Leeds, Mrs. Jack Wagnon, Mrs. Earl Starkey, Mrs. Hatch Lord, Mrs. H. A. Wilson, mother of the guest of honor, and the two hostesses, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Arrington.

CENTRAL AVENUE SCHOOL

Central Avenue school athletes who recently won the championship of the interschool track meet, were presented with their certificates commemorating and betokening their victory, Thursday afternoon, at the school. Miss Schultz, teacher of girls' athletics in the schools, presented the ribbon to the school and the certificates to the girls who won the championship of the volley ball competition. The girls on the team were: Helen Thompson, Regina Townsend, Theo Payne, Lucille Kinley, Caroline McClean, Margaret Mitchell, Kathleen Campbell, Loys Olmstead.

The Central Avenue boys also won in track and the school gains the track blue ribbon for Intermediate track events, the blue ribbon for Junior track events and the blue ribbon for the Junior relay. The boys on the team were: Harold Sohner, Stanley Niblack, Frank Marsh, Edward Thompson, Kenneth Cousins, Harvey Stadley, David Kelley, Howard Briggs, Floyd Kinley. Mr. E. M. Polley of the Intermediate school presented the certificates.

A prohibition petition signed by 346,166 male voters twenty-one years old and over and by 479,396 women and minors was presented to the Canadian government by the citizens of Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Phillips of West Fifth street will entertain friends from Denver, Colorado, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones were guests at the Jeffersonian dinner in Christopher's, Thursday evening.

Mr. J. W. Johnston of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is making an extended visit at the home of his brother, Henry Johnston, 335 Everett St.

Mrs. Frank Grosvernor, Burchett street, who has been quite ill during the past two weeks and confined to bed, is gradually getting better.

The Glendale Union High school closed for the Easter vacation Friday evening and many of the students are planning to spend their vacation week either at the beach or camping in the mountains.

Miss Lucine Justema, sister of Mr. W. Justema, 304 S. Central avenue, who was seriously injured in an auto accident last Sunday, near Santa Ana, is progressing favorably. Mr. Justema's other sister, Mrs. Dhea Blair, who was also in the accident, escaped with a few bruises and is now nearly well at her own home. Miss Lucine Justema is in the Santa Ana hospital and is getting along favorably.

MRS. JOHNSTON HOSTESS

Mrs. Henry Johnston is entertaining with a luncheon today at her home, 335 Everett street. Among her guests are Mrs. Mattie Blair Stone of Omaha, Neb., Mrs. Hattie Stone Floyd of Rock Falls, Ill., Mrs. A. S. Reynolds and Mrs. Gussie Woodcock of Los Angeles. Covers were laid for ten at the beautifully appointed table which was adorned with magnificent roses.

ROSE LUNCHEON

Miss Annie Leonard of Boston and Col. and Mrs. Dunham of Los Angeles were the honored guests at a luncheon at which Mrs. Charles I. Pierce presided in her attractive home at 1428 West Seventh street, Friday. The extensive rose gardens of the Pierce home were called upon to furnish the setting for the luncheon and the rooms were adorned with a profusion of these blossoms, while the faultlessly appointed luncheon table had as a centerpiece a bowl of Cecil Brunners combined with bachelor buttons.

A few days since, Dr. Bowen, Mrs. Dowley and Mrs. Shumway, all from Vermont, were entertained at the Pierce home.

FLOWER SHOW EXHIBITS

Those who intend to enter exhibits in the coming Flower Show, April 20, 21, 22, are urgently requested to phone at once their names and addresses and the nature of their exhibits to Mrs. Nanno Woods, president of the society, 1111 W. Broadway, Glendale 1357. The sooner this is done the better, but it should be done not later than three days before the show. By having the names, etc., of intending exhibitors it will be possible for the committee to have arrangements completed before the show opens and much confusion at the last moment will be prevented.

BUICK CAR IN THE MOVIES

Among the moving pictures exhibited Friday evening and Saturday at the matinee in the Palace Grand theater, was one showing a Buick car, Model 45, light six, on a trip to Pine Knot in Big Bear valley. It would be difficult to imagine a more strenuous journey that that to the center of the Big Bear valley, at this time of the year. Usually it is considered impossible to take this trip until May and there is always much interest taken in the struggle to send the first car to the store at Pine Knot, which is the goal of the race. This year the B. H. Dyas company offered a handsome cup for the first car to reach the store. The Buick car won the contest for the third consecutive year. The pictures showed the car climbing the rugged trails of the valley. About 1500 feet of films was used. Mr. J. H. Hunchberger, who has the Buick agency in Glendale, says that the Buick crew was confident that it would be the winner and took a camera man and film along with them. "The picture shows," says Mr. Hunchberger, "what the Buick car can do. A car that can climb those trails at this time of the year can go anywhere."

TROPICO

The long delightful afternoons are ideal for tennis and each day devotees of this splendid out-door game engage in the sport on the municipal playgrounds. Friday afternoon a most lively game was played between the Junior boys of Tropico and the Junior boys of the Pacific avenue schools. The first doubles were won by Frank Mantino and Allen Baker of Tropico against George Jordan and John Richardson, the score standing 6 to 1. In the singles Frank Mantino won from John Richardson, 6-0.

Allen Baker and Frank Mantino playing against George Jordan and John Richardson won again, the score standing 6-0. Earl Brown won from George Jordan, 6-4. Earl Brown and Tom Spear won from John Richardson and George Jordan, 6-0. The Junior boys of Tropico are especially good tennis players and winners in many of the matches.

It is the desire of the management of the playgrounds that all who are interested in tennis form teams and increase a desire to render tennis popular here in Tropico. The tennis court is in most excellent shape.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Glenn of Ashland, Oregon, were the guests Friday of J. B. Hickman of "Palm Villa." Mr. and Mrs. Glenn have been lifelong friends of Mr. Hickman and family and were neighbors when the Glenn and Hickman families resided in Indiana. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn are seeking for a permanent residence in Southern California.

Mr. Collie E. Kinney entertained at his home, No. 317 West Palmer avenue, very charmingly, having as his guests Mr. and Mrs. Collins W. Kinnan and son Floyd Kinnan, of Glendale, formerly of Indianapolis, Indiana, Mr. Kinney's former home, and Mrs. Flora Parsons Pugh and Miss Lydia Watkins of Anderson, Indiana. Mr. Kinney's bachelor quarters were prettily decorated in white Kaisaima and pink Maman Cochet roses.

The Hot Box team of Los Angeles will cross bats with the Tropico baseball team Sunday afternoon. Game called at 2:30.

Fifty or more of the Juniors of the Glendale Union High school enjoyed a wiener and marshmallow roast on the campus last evening. Many lively games were enjoyed and these happy young boys and girls later enjoyed the performance at the Palace Grand. Mrs. David H. Imler chaperoned the party.

MEALY BUG PEST

Extreme measures should be employed by the packinghouse authorities and others having control of the picking boxes, that they be thoroughly fumigated before sending out after mealy bug infested fruit has been transported in them, and similar precautions regarding clothing, picking bags and tools of the pickers should certainly be observed after picking an infested grove.

Like many other insects, the numbers of mealy bugs are very much less late in the winter and early spring than later in the season, when warm weather accelerates their breeding. The same measures taken in March and April will undoubtedly produce much greater results than if delayed until the infestation becomes more apparent.

Growers are no doubt often deceived by the scarcity of the bugs at this time into the belief that the infestation is decreasing and the control measures are thus deloyed beyond the time when they would be most effective. It is especially important for any grower who has mealy bug infestation, to begin treatment at once and continue it vigorously until, if possible, they are gotten rid of, and persistence in the work is especially advisable if only a small portion of his grove is affected. If the infestation is general through the whole grove, pretty satisfactory control can be had, particularly in the case of lemons, by thoroughly washing down the trees with cold water applied under pressure by a spraying machine, and repeated as necessary. This will, however, never eradicate them, and quite possibly it has a tendency to spread them to the clean trees adjoining, to which they will crawl on the ground after having been washed from the trees.

In conclusion, I would like to say emphatically that whatever variety of mealy bugs you have, get rid of them if possible, and do not be deceived by the statement that certain varieties are harmless and that only the citri is entitled to serious consideration, even if the statement is made by a recognized authority from the university, the State Commissioners office or elsewhere. Such statements do not correspond with the experience of the growers anywhere that any considerable infestation has become established.

THE WORLD MOVES

—The luxury of yesterday is today's necessity. The Electric Light has become as common as the tallow dip of a century ago. New standards have been set. The ways of our fathers are not ours. How grand-dad did things no longer concerns us. The 2-cylinder automobile is as rare today as the war chariot. The world advances.

—And this progress is seen at its best in the home. The hot water system, the Mazda light, modern plumbing, the electric iron—all proclaim this world progress.

—And now comes the Electric way of cleaning house. Instead of wielding broom and duster, the modern housewife brings Electricity and air to her aid. She no longer has to take her rugs up and her curtains down every "so often" for a housecleaning, because her house is really clean all the time. She has come to learn how cheaply she can utilize the Electricity that is in her house—how it saves hours every day—saves her energy, her steps, her home, her good looks.
